

Racism in Britain

“ I disagree. I think we still have a long way to go before people accept that Britain is a multi-cultural society. There are thousands of racial incidents every year, from verbal abuse to senseless murders, and racial discrimination is still a big problem in jobs and housing. There are still far too many people in Britain who believe in the idea of racial purity and think it’s okay to hate others simply because of their colour or religion. These attitudes are the cause of ethnic conflicts not only in Britain but all over the world. Here’s my evidence ... ”
